Snowshoe Hiking

The times are gone when just the lovers of nature left their broad marks in the snow. The snowshoes offer skiers and non-skiers new possibilities in the wonderful surroundings of the Alps. Equipped with snowshoes and telescope poles, snowshoe hiking is equally suitable for young and mature people and does not require special skills or endurance. Accompanied by experienced guides, even sportive newcomers can reach mountain tops and experience the breathtaking and snowy nature.

Along the hike the group will have several breaks. During these breaks hot and cold drinks and snacks will be provided for refreshment. In between, the guests have the possibility to join a bob ride, a snowshoe race or they try to build a human pyramid. Another possibility could be a training and small competition with an avalanche transceiver. There are several breaks during the snowshoe hike through the glistening snow. If desired, participants can also enjoy hot mulled wine and savour delicious gingerbread along the way. Various team-building or fun activities are also possible, or how about an Eskimo lunch followed by a dog sledding workshop?

Sustainable Events

By eventfactory

Your sustainable Event!

Without a doubt, events must be made more sustainable in the future. There are many starting points, but who can keep track and know what to do? The team at eventfactory has sustainability officers and a tight network of partners, making us the perfect point of contact for all sustainability aspects at your event. We help make your MICE event sustainable, with several starting points:

- 1) On the one hand, we are happy to support you in making your entire group trip more sustainable. Through our know-how and the right selection of our certified partners, it is also possible to organise your event as a "Green Event", taking various criteria into account.
- 2) On the other hand, we have developed team building and outdoor activities that focus on certain aspects of sustainability, without losing sight of the ultimate goals of your event. If you want to retain your employees or clients or build team spirit, do some good at the same time and increase the impact.

Considering the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs*) and choosing the right programs can make the experience even greater for participants. Our team will be happy to advise you.

*The Sustainable Development Goals, SDGs for short, deal with the key aspects and objectives for sustainable development in a global, interconnected context. It has been recognised that different problems need to be addressed everywhere and at the same time and should not be regionally or thematically limited. This approach makes it possible to address urgent problems such as poverty, environmental degradation, inequality, production and consumption patterns, corruption, etc. in an adequate and forward-looking manner. Detailed information can be found here. A brief overview of the 17 objectives can be found on the following page.

SDGs- an overview

Dumpling workshop

In Austria alone, around one million tonnes of food are wasted every year. The causes of this are numerous. In addition to crop losses and unsold food, a large part of food waste is caused, for example, by incorrect storage and misinterpretation of the "best before" date.

To take a stand against food waste, we want to work with you to rescue food that would otherwise end up in the trash. Using bread collected from supermarkets and bakeries, the group will prepare various delicious dumpling variations together, which can of course be enjoyed afterwards.

The group will not only learn great new recipes, but will also learn how to handle food responsibly. The best part of this team activity, however, is that the group will make a valuable contribution to a sustainable future together, thereby strengthening the cohesion of the group.

To make the forest climate-fit

Through reforestation and tree maintenance measures, forests can be preserved as natural climate protectors and protect habitats for many generations. Planting young trees can restore the lost forest cover due to storm damage and deforestation, ensuring that the forests remain healthy in the future.

Participants will work together with local forest rangers in their forestry activities. On the one hand, young trees will be planted, and on the other hand, participants will carry out tree care work to ensure that the trees grow well.

With this team activity, participants not only contribute to a healthy ecosystem but also strengthen their teamwork and collaboration. During forestry work, participants must support each other and show teamwork.

Each team receives a kit for building a bird feeder. The necessary tools for building the feeder are provided, and our experts support the teams during the construction. After successfully completing the feeders, the teams can decorate them with eco-friendly paint according to their wishes. The finished bird feeders can be taken home by the participants and set up to provide additional feeding places for birds in their native areas.

By constructing a birdhouse, the group's team spirit is strengthened, as all participants must be involved. In addition, the participants contribute to the conservation of various bird species.

Laughing children's eyes are truly a beautiful sight. In order to achieve this and bring joy to numerous children, we want to build toys in this team building activity.

In teams, participants will build various toys from wood, fabric, and other natural materials for children of all ages. When designing the toys, there are no limits for the participants, and they are welcome to use bright colors. The finished toys will then be donated to "SOS Kinderdorf" and social institutions in Tyrol. We will undoubtedly bring great joy to these children.

Artwork from Natural Materials

Working with natural materials promotes creativity. Here, participants can create the company logo together using materials from nature. First, all guests will go on a hike, iPad rally, or treasure hunt with a map and compass to collect materials in the forest. Nothing should be picked or torn from nature during this activity. The collected materials such as stones, leaves, pinecones, straw, branches, and much more will be spread out and secured on a large, prepared table. Thus, the company logo will be created as an artwork, preferably in conjunction with the company values. In good weather, the design can take place outside, otherwise, it will be indoors at the hotel. For the background graphic, we would work with your company's marketing department. This will result in a background image with the logo, slogan, and possibly even the company values. The artwork will receive a wooden frame in which the participants can carve their initials.

Alpine Pasture Day

Our alpine pasture is surrounded by bold rock walls and lush meadows. The "Halter" - the residents of the alpine pasture - greet us with a friendly "Juchizer" and are happy that we are supporting them today on the alpine pasture.

Life on the alpine pasture is not easy, but it is important for landscape conservation, ecological food production, and of course tourism. It is therefore sustainable when guests support the alpine residents for a day and learn interesting things about alpine life at the same time. Depending on the season, one group helps with haymaking or repairs fences for the animals in a traditional way. Another group churns the freshly milked milk into butter and portions it with a "Modl", a type of butter mold. Yet another group bakes fresh bread together with the farmer's wife, searches for herbs, mushrooms, and berries, and then prepares a delicious meal for everyone.

Addition to the wild bee hotel

The highly complex coexistence of bees is fascinating. At the beekeeping workshop, participants learn about the organization of beehives and the tasks that diligent worker bees undertake. These useful insects are vital to our ecosystem, and in the workshop, participants can learn how to protect honeybees and thus ensure a functional habitat.

In addition, the beekeeping workshop aims to provide participants with insights into the work and daily life of a beekeeper and impart interesting information about beekeeping. Participants can learn what it means to be a beekeeper and what year-round tasks are involved. They learn how honey is made and the work that goes into a single jar of honey.

Survival Workshop

A survival training in the mountains is a special challenge. The participants learn different techniques on how to find their bearings and how to make a fire without any modern tools. They have to build a shelter and provide food for themselves after the principle of the 4 columns of surviving: fire, shelter, water and food. At the end of the day, each guest should be able to survive a certain amount of time in nature, far away from civilization.

The alpine survival training is a valuable experience, which reflects the participant's abilities towards nature. The better the participants work together as a team, the easier the challenges are mastered.

The disc should be in the basket - this is the sporting goal of disc golf. The rules are like those of classic golf, except that ball and club are exchanged for a Disc Golf disc which must be thrown in special baskets on the various holes. Both individual and team competitions can be played. Due to the relaxed atmosphere and the low sporting requirements, Disc Golf is a sport for everyone and the whole group can share this experience together.

After a short introduction, the participants are equipped with special Disc Golf discs and score cards and divided into small groups. In these groups, the players set out on the course we have set up and try to complete it with as few throws as possible. Soap Box Grand Pix

Soap Box Racing is a big adventure, especially for adults. The guests get reminded of earlier days, when the task of the summer was to build a soap box and win the big soap box race at the end of the summer break. At that time, not only the children, but also the parents were occupied in building such a vehicle.

At the soap box race the guests get provided with all the equipment: wheels, axis, breaks, steering mechanism, chassis and all the necessary tools for building it. Furthermore, paint and stickers are available to pattern the car in the company's design. Every team consists of approximately 10 persons and has drivers, engineers for the pit stop and a team captain. For the safety of the drivers, we use fences and lots of straw bales. After the race, all teams will be awarded. For the team pictures, the soap boxes will be prepared to give off clouds of smoke.

Human Table Soccer Tournament

Soccer is an outstanding team sport. To give each team the same chances, a so-called human table soccer will be used. This is an inflated table soccer where every team member represents a player. Each player has its own place at the pole. Direct interaction with another player is avoided thus the risk of injuries is very small. The most important aim is team spirit. The softball can only be played, when every team member at the pole is moving to the same direction.

During the preliminary rounds, the teams can collect additional points at the activities “dribbling course” and “goal wall shooting”. Later, the semi-finals and the final will be played in tournament-mode. The event can be realized indoor and outdoor or booked as an alternative for an outdoor program in case of bad weather.

Activities for Team Experience

Walk the Plank

The participants wear virtual reality glasses that transport them into the virtual world. There they stand on the 80th floor of a skyscraper. Now it's time to step onto the thin, free-floating plank - fun and thrills are guaranteed with this view!

Laser-Biathlon Shooting

A steady hand and a cool head are required here! After a practice round and a short but intensive warm-up exercise, the aim is to hit the bull's-eye as often as possible under time pressure while keeping an eye on the time.

Building a Catapult

After joint planning, the construction phase begins - the participants need manual skills, concentration and teamwork!

Activities for Team Experience

Simulation Game

Various negotiating partners must work together to find a solution to a specific problem. This simulation requires effective communication and illustrates the advantages of partnership and strategic thinking!

Nine Points – One Rope

Think outside the box! The goal is to connect the nine dots in a certain way. Sounds simple but requires thinking outside the given framework - which is not easy for everyone.

The magical Polygon

This is the time to rethink! The participants are confronted with the task of representing a certain shape with a rope. It becomes clear that too little resources are available - unconventional solutions are needed!

Activities for Team Experience

Tower of Power

This team exercise requires skill, strategic thinking and joint action. Together, all the wooden blocks have to be stacked to form a tower.

Nail Stacking

A certain number of nails should be balanced on one single nail. Can the task be accomplished at all, and if so, how? Team spirit and a steady hand are needed!

Olfactory Experience

The participants take a deep breath, relax and try to identify the unknown smells. The scent comes from spices and natural substances. This sensory experience sounds easier than it really is.

Activities for Team Experience

Tent Construction

The task is to set up a conventional igloo tent. The problem is, that half of the group is blindfolded. The rest of the team must now give clear instructions and help the blind colleagues.

Focus Ring

An egg placed on one stick should be transferred to another stick as a group. Since the team members are blindfolded and are not allowed to touch the egg, they are given a ring with strings attached.

Leonardo Bridge

Leonardo da Vinci developed, among other things, a transportable bridge. The participants try to assemble the individual components without any further aids - all by skillful entanglement.

Hotels

For the accommodation, climate neutral hotels will be booked, that offer a sustainable buffet and cooperate with local suppliers. The sustainability efforts are more important than the location of the hotel.

Give-aways

Examples for sustainable give aways are handmade Edelweiß made of pine wood, pine wood pillows, bee products, and many more products, including sustainable give aways from local farmers.

CO₂ Compensation via donation

CO₂ Compensation

Every event starts with a massive amount of CO₂, as the guests need to make their journey to the event. As a general rule, avoidance is better than compensation! Alternatively, to compensate for the CO₂, a certain amount of money can be used to invest in sustainable projects. Here are our recommendations:

Climate Austria (www.climateaustria.at) calculates the CO₂ emissions of individuals, companies and flights with a certified method. Thereupon a CO₂ compensation can be made by supporting national and international climate protection projects.

Treedom (www.treedom.net) plants trees in various countries. The project finances and supports small farmers with the maintenance of trees in their first few years. Subsequently, they bear fruits and offer food security, protection against soil erosion and create habitat for animals.

The Rain Forest Association (www.regenwald.at) advocates for the preservation of an endangered rain forest area of about 40km² in Costa Rica. The area was integrated in a national park to save the biodiversity. Furthermore, the association is committed to the reforestation of cleared land plots, the employment of gamekeepers, the protection of endangered animal species, sustainable tourism and tropical research.

Tropica Verde (www.tropica-verde.de) is a German association for the protection of tropical habitats, biodiversity and endangered species in Costa Rica. The association advocates for reforestation, the protection of forests and animal species as well as environmental education in Costa Rica and Germany. Furthermore, the association holds the DZI donation seal and is committed to transparency under the requirements of the "initiative transparent civil society".

Myclimate (www.myclimate.org) offers solutions for effective engagement in the sectors sustainability and climate protection. Myclimate is one of the global quality leaders for voluntary CO₂ compensation actions, especially in Germany, Austria, Switzerland and Norway. Since its foundation, they have already developed and supported 174 climate protection projects in 45 countries.
